THE new scheme of Government schola ships, particulars of which will be found another column, commends itself as a sten in the right direction, though probably no perfect in its deta s. The former scheme. under which scholarships of the value of £200 a year for the study of law, medicine, or civil engineering were given, overshot the mark considerably, and while involving the colony in a large expenditure and conferring a valuable boon on the few boys who were fortunate enough to profit by it, exerted almost no influence in the raising of the standard of education generally. The number of prizes was so extremely limited, and the chances of success for the average boy so remote, that the competition was left to the one or two smart boys of the various schools, the great body of pupils taking absolutely no interest in the matter. But under the new scheme there are sufficient prizes to stimulate a general competition and the teachers also are encouraged by a capitation grant for second ary education. There is to be conferred annually one senior scholarship of the value £80 a year tenable for three years and the only limitation as to the course of study is that it must be approved by the Governor or the Secretary of State for the Colonies. Capitation grants are to be given for secondary education, including the subjects required for a pass in the senior division of the Oxford or Cambridge local examinations a number of scholarships of the value of 35 and $10 a mouth, the number depending on the amount available, are to be given; and monetary aid is to be granted towards defrav-Maps and Plans, pp. 1154, 35. Another and a minor point on which the scheme seems open to criticism. is the provision that monetary aid towards defraying the entrance fees required for the Oxford and Cambridge local examinations or then return to Hongkong, and shortly after wards terminate har commission on the China for the London University matriculation examinations is to be granted only on proof of the need of such aid, such proof, presumula being the poverty of the parents. In practice this would lead to abuse. Some who plasion of a patent rooket, is to undergo a outred foreign nations were building more ships than really needed the aid would probably be too sensitive to plend for it in forma pauperis and some who did not need it would not be above using misrepresentations to obtain it. The history of endowed schools originally founded for the poor and afterwords monopolised by the rich is a sufficient indication of the danger to which this the brain. provision in the scheme would lead. All the prizes, whether in the shape of scholarships or payment of special fees. should be offered for open competition, irrespective of social status, for although one would naturally wish to see them falling to those boys whose parents could not afford to pay for secondary education rather than to the sons of the wealthy, exercience has shown that provisions to secure that end are in Thus the Singapore Free Press on the new in general, I think, that we should have a good practice unworkable and lead to dishously. These, however, are matters of detail which are subject to amendment. Taking the scheme as a whole it marks a distinct advance in the promotion of secondary education in the Colony and

THE letter published by the Rev. Wong YUK CHO, a pastor belonging to the London Mission, Hongkong, is a fair starple of the nonsense talked by the anti-opiumists. He says, "Sad to tell, this poison was the cause the cause of war between China and the cannot affirm that it is not." Certainly and alcohol are also poisons. Eut as used by the moderate opium smoker or opium eater, which is what Mr. Wong. YUK Cho is speaking of, the drug exercises no perceptible toxic effect. That the affirmation of those who differ from the anti-opiumists, and the evidence taken by the Opium Commission fully supports it, the case of the anti-opiumists having broken down completely. Like alcohol or tobacco. opium may be and sometimes is used to excess, but the extent to which it is abused and the evils resulting from such abuse are cortainly less than in the case of alcohol and litle if any greater than those of tobacco. Indeed, there is very respectable medical authority for the statement that in malarious climates it has a distinctly beneficial effect on the into frequent contact with the Chinese, from rule inferior to the latter either physique or mental capacity. True there used to excess and health and character are are cases, happily rare, in which the drug is alike ruined. But if the use of all articles that are occasionally abused were to be pro-knodification was that where previous notice of hibited the human race would experience the restraint of a moral straight waistcoat. Coffee and tea as well as alcohol and tobacco would have to be included in the list, along with various other articles of daily consumption. Mr. Wong YUE Cho is quite correct in arguing that two wrongs do not make a right and that the existence of the frade inalcohol would not justify the continued existence of the trade in opium assuming each to be bad in itself. It is only for the sake of illustration by analogy that alcohol is introduced into the argument. Wong Yuk Cho Hee in to be under l considerable misasprehension as to the vils resulting from the above of alcohol as compared with those resulting from the

GRAND CONCERT AT THE CITY HALL.

There was a crowded and fashionable audience. which included H.E. Sir William and Lady twobinson, H.E. Major General and Mrs. Barker, Admiral Sir E., and Lady From tile, and the slite of the colony, at the City Hall on Saturday mile in 40, 1,194, 1.581, 2.374. Exile, ridden by evening, the occasion being a concert, given by umnteurs, in aid of the Alice Memorial and Nethersole Hospitals. It was eminently gratifying that such a worthy cause should have been so liberally supported, and doubtless the institutions named will anbatantially benefit. The cause of charity, it is said, covers a multitude of defects and therefore it would perhaps be unfair to speak critically of efforts so well directed. It must nevertheless be confessed that the programme was not a very strong one, and as it certainly did not err on the side of quantity it might have been correspondingly improved in quality: It is however, hardly worth while doaling captiously with the performance, though we are always prepared to contend that the mere fact of a charitable object being concerned does not extenunte any demerite in a public entertainment. As the concert was not at all regarded as an important function of the musical year, and as it certainly was not very ambitious, it is sufficient to say that it was generally enjoyed and that the most of applanse was liberally given. One admirable feature, first to be noted, was the arrangement of a commodious stage extending beyond the ourtain almost to the course of the hall. From this the performers were heard to wise have been the case, and at future entertainments of a similar mature the same idea with doubtless be carried luto effect. The programme opened with an overture by the orchestra, which had been announced as a special attraction, and under the capable leadership of Mr. Oco. P. Lammert, a very creditable interpretation of Strauss was given, though faults of time and tune were occasionally observable, Mr. D. K. Sliman, whom we wolcome as n new performer, gave Goring Thomas's "Under thy window." He has a tenor voice of high compass and exceedingly pleusing but we could not bear one word of the song distinctly, a fact which naturally discounted the morit of the effort. Mrs. Dowler, who rendered "Thoughts and Tears in a rich soprano, dic not err in this manner, her enunciation being singularly clear. A persistent encore was thorouthly Cogarged. The spaceeding violin and piano duet, by such accomplished instrumentalists as Mr. Von Wille and Mrs. Gillies, naturally was received with marked approbation. Mrs. Mitchell followed with "The World of Dreams from Clay's "Frincess Toto," but as we have heard it so often recently, the applause may be taken more as a compliment to the singer than as an expression of genuine approval. The last item the first part at once lifted the perfor ro to a distinctly higher musical level. Nozar could have been richer and more exdelively tender than Mrs. Gordon's interpretation of "Kathleen Mayourn on," and the audience persisted in an encore. In response Mrs. Gordon rendered the old time favourite "The year that's awa The second part was commenced by an overture by the orobestra, after which Mr. C. H. Grace gave " For all eternity" in capital voice, securing a well merited encore. Mrs. Dowler again produced a most favourable impression and senared an insistence for more. Mrs. Gillies showed her powers as a brilliant exeentionist upon the pianoforte by a solo which gained hearty appleuse, and filrs. Gordon quite enraptured her addience with the most elightful rendering of Blumenthal's "Life." The orchestra concluded the concert with a fairly creditable performance from Bandel, though
